

Amy R. Beauregard nee Moore Born September 15(16), 1895, Brigham City, Utah
1896 At 6 months moved with her family by covered wagon to St. Anthony, ID
1916 Graduated from high school in St. Anthony (have picture and announcement)
1916-17 Worked in an insurance company as secretary in St. Anthony
1917(19) Married Joseph Beauregard who worked for the Wood Live Stock Company in Spencer, Idaho. Their honeymoon was spent at the Salt Lake Resort in Utah.
1920 Daughter Eizabeth (Beth) was born.

When living in Spencer Amny enjoyed ice skating and dancing with her husband and friends. She became a member of the Eastern Star in Dubois and was a Worthy Matron twice. She liked to horseback ride. She worked with the other women in town at Christmas sweing the green and red net stockings for the Christmas program at the school house. The net stockings were filled with fruit and nuts. She also enjoyed the plays put on by the local theatrical buffs. She also made Tu-tus for Beth for Marcia Wood's yearly recital.

1932 Left Spencer for Nampa, Idaho, with husband and daughter.
1933 At death of Joe moved to St. Anthony where Beth and Amy lived with her mother for two years and worked when it was available.
1934 Took a job as cook at the U.S. Sheep Experiment Station where she worked until her nervous breakdown in 1937. Amy's brother in Dillon invited Beth and Amy to stay with them.
1935 Amy moved to Rigby to help her sister Ada run her dry cleaning shop
1942 Amy went to Washington D.C. to visit Beth. At the end of the summer Amy decided to accept her daughter's invitation to stay and keep her company since Beth's husband was in the South Pacific. Amy took a refresher course at night at the High School across from their apartment. She worked on her shorthand and typing and within a few months she was working as a card-punch clerk with the Government
1943 She soon worked herself up to a typist position
1944 Her job changed and she went to work for the U. S. Employment Service, Veterans Division, as secretary to the head of one of the departments.
1946 When Beth remarried (her first husband was killed in the war) Amy was asked by the couple to make her home with them
1960 Amy retired with honors at age 65 from the Government where had many friends
During the years of her retirement she enjoyed her grandchildren at the Hugo family's home in Maryland near D.C. and the University of Maryland. She was valuable and helpful member of the family and she quickly made friends in the community. Amy visited her sister in Seattle every summer, going on a trip to Hawaii with Adan's sone and family. Amy kept active and helped keep the household running smoothly and continued her handiwork. Her favorite job was ironing and working in the yard. However, her grandchildren Michele and Curtis were her real love. She played cards with them, taught Michele to embroider, knit and crochet and was the chief birthday cake maker.

1978 While visiting Ada her heart trouble flaired up and when she returned to Maryland was ill for several months. However, she started going to a Senior Citizens Fellowship which she enjoyed and soon became more enthusiastic about life than ever before with the exciting activities and new friends. She also took part in a University of Maryland program for Seniors every Saturday morning during the fall and spring semesters of the school.

1982 When her daughter and husband retired, they moved to Florida to Anna Maria on the West coast. She enjoyed walking the beach and walking every morning to the Post Office to watch the post-mistress put up the flag and made many friends. She was able to go again to another Senior Center every day.

1983 Amy contracted pneumonitis in January and never recovered from the shock. She had several strokes and died four months later. Amy was one in a million and grew in beauty as she aged. Her service was held in Maryland where her many friends were.
